

Window Security Bars – Forced Entry protection

Window Security Bars are a traditional and high-level protection solution for window security. Designed to either face fix to the outside of the window or reveal fix on the inside of the window they provide protection to stop unwanted intrusion into your home/business.

Once in place, the structure provides a significant visual deterrent as well as providing an actual physical protection barrier against the most resolute vandals and thieves by substantially increasing the difficulty and delay of attempted break ins.

The Window Security Bars are manufactured from high strength steel bars to maximise resistance to cutting with heavy-duty steel spaces to resist bars being bent.

All Window Security Bars come in a fully galvanised finish (optional painted finish on request) and include fixings where applicable.

Proven security

The Window Security Bars have long been deployed on sites to prevent intruder access and while they are not necessarily the most aesthetically pleasing they are, of course a highly functional, well proven and a low cost solution to combat forced entry intrusion.

Ease of Installation

The Window Security Bars are manufactured to suit your exact requirements and can be easily installed to most windows as home kits, however for greater piece of mind our team can provide pre-order surveys, installation and ongoing maintenance checks.
